

TO SERVE TERM IN FEDERAL PRISON

William H. Trimpe, Postmaster at Waymansville, Pleads Guilty to Embezzlement.

SHORTAGE OF ABOUT $500

Sentenced to Serve Term of Eighteen Months at Atlanta, Ga.—Arrested Week Ago.

William H. Trimpe, postmaster at Waymansville, Bartholomew county, fifteen miles northwest of here, was sentenced in federal court in Indianapolis Monday to serve eighteen months in the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., for embezzlement of about $500 of postoffice money. He pleaded guilty to the charge when arraigned before Judge Albert B. Anderson. He will begin the serving of his sentence at once.

Trimpe, who is well known in Seymour and Jackson county, was arrested about a week ago on a federal grand jury indictment. The indictment followed an investigation of his postoffice accounts several weeks ago. Considerable surprise resulted from the sentence.

Friends of Trimpe say that it is their opinion that the shortage was due to a confusion in bookkeeping rather than to an attempt upon his part to defraud the government. He was engaged in business as an undertaker in Waymansville and had other business interests and some of his friends declare that the accounts were mixed and he was unable to straighten them out when the inspector arrived for an examination of the postoffice books.

When Trimpe was arrested at his home a week ago he furnished bond for $2,000 for his appearance in federal court Monday afternoon. The shortage has been a matter of general comment in the Waymansville vicinity because of the wide acquaintance of the defendant.

GRAND JURY EXPECTED TO END SESSION TODAY

Several Witnesses Called Before That Body at Brownstown Today—Case Tried in Court.

The grand jury which has been in session at Brownstown for several days during the May term of Jackson circuit court, is expected to complete its work today. A number of witnesses were called before that body today and the grand jury was busy late this afternoon winding up its work in hope of finishing the session.

A large number of people have been called before the grand jury during the session, a large majority of whom reside in this city. It is predicted that a number of indictments will be returned and the outcome of the special grand jury is being watched with much interest.

The case of William P. Rider vs. estate of Cecil Burge, deceased, suit on account, was heard by Judge James A. Cox in circuit court this morning. The judge had not rendered a decision in the case this afternoon.

A white form, dancing on the temple steps, was all that stood between a handful of English men and women and death. The form was that of Sigrid, the London dancer, whom they had scorned and despised. Did she falter? Did she fail them? See the startling denouement that lights Nazimova's performance of "Stronger Than Death," at the Majestic Theatre, tonight with the brilliancy of genius!

ENGINEER MEETS
DEATH IN WRECK

Philip M. Ahl, Former Resident of Brownstown, Dies in Freight Accident Near Zionsville.

CAUGHT UNDER LOCOMOTIVE

Moved to Indianapolis About Ten Years Ago—George Ahl, a Brother, Lives Near Here.

Philip M. Ahl, a former resident of Brownstown, an engineer in the employ of the Big Four Railroad, was killed instantly in a wreck near Zionsville about 7 o'clock Monday night. He had lived in Indianapolis ten years. George Ahl, a brother, lives on the Joe H. Andrews farm, east of the city. The deceased was well known here and in Brownstown. A Zionsville dispatch relative to the accident follows:

"Philip M. Ahl, of Indianapolis, Big Four engineer, was instantly killed, and Walter Fosnot of Lafayette, fireman, seriously injured in a freight wreck on the Chicago division of the Big Four here at 7 o'clock Monday night.

"Ahl's engine and a caboose were standing on a siding to allow a freight train to pass. A heavily loaded coal car had developed a 'hot box' and as the car reached the side of the standing engine the axle broke, throwing the car with several others against the engine. The engine was overturned. Ahl jumped but was caught under the engine. His body was badly mangled.

"Fireman Fosnot held to the engine. He sustained a crushed right shoulder and a compound fracture of the right leg and instep. He was taken to Lafayette on an interurban car.

"Twelve cars and the engine were piled up in a tangled heap and it was some time before Ahl's body could be taken from under the engine. The body was sent to Indianapolis.

Mr. Ahl was about forty years of age and had been in the service of the Big Four Company for about eighteen years. He leaves the widow, a son, Earl, eighteen, and a daughter, Hazel, sixteen, all of Indianapolis. Mr. Ahl's home was at 1128 Reid Place, Indianapolis. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Ahl, who live in Caldwell, Mont.

Mr. Ahl also leaves six other brothers, Frank and Fred, of Indianapolis, and James, Kenneth, Noble and Charles, of Caldwell, Mont. J. P. Ahl, who lives near this city, is an uncle of the deceased.

Before accepting employment with the Big Four Railroad in Indianapolis, Mr. Ahl worked on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad with headquarters in this city for about two years.

WHITE RIVER IS RISING SLOWLY

Water at Rockford Coming up at Rate of Two Inches Per Hour This Afternoon.

SMALL STREAMS OUT OF BANKS

Overflow Not Expected if Rainfall Stops Within Next Twelve Hours, Rivermen Say.

White river is rising slowly according to reports from Rockford today. The water was coming up at the rate of two inches per hour this afternoon but unless heavy rains follow the river is not expected to get out of its banks.

According to reports from over the county several of the small streams and creeks are out of their banks and water is across the roads. However, they will recede as soon as the rain stops and will be back to normal a few hours afterwards.

The Muscatatuck river is out of its banks in places in the southwestern part of the county. According to reports received here the Muscatatuck started to rise Friday and the lowlands have been flooded since. It will be several days before the farmers in that section will be able to resume work because of the wet condition of the land.

The farmers throughout the county are much discouraged on account of the rains this spring that has caused much delay, and farming in general is several weeks delayed. Owing to the unfavorable spring farmers will have to work long hours to get the fields seeded.

Many farmers are of the opinion that the corn acreage will be much smaller than usual. The amount of ground that is broken is much smaller than usual at this time of the year and the rains will result in further delay.

RAILROADS TO PRESENT
CLAIMS FOR HIGHER RATES

Representatives of Two Local Roads Appear Before Chamber of Commerce Late Today.

R. L. Galleher, general freight agent of the Indiana division, Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, and F. G. Maus, general freight agent, Louisville division, Pennsylvania Lines, are to be the speakers at a special meeting of the chamber of commerce at the city building this afternoon. They represent the railroads in this vicinity which are co-operating with other transportation systems in the central west in a request for a thirty per cent. increase in all classes of freight.

The meeting called here late today is one of a series to be held through the central west at which the railroad representatives will explain the need for increased freight rates. The equipment is in bad condition and new rolling stock is needed, they say, to insure normal transportation conditions.

JUDGE REFERS TO THEFTS OF AUTOS

Anderson in Federal Courts Says Too Many Men Are Given Liberty After Conviction.

STATE COURTS NEGLIGENT

Declares Governor or Pardon Board Shows Leniency to Men Who Are Found Guilty of Thefts.

By United Press.

Indianapolis, May 18—Responsibility for the wave of automobile thefts throughout Indiana was laid directly at the feet of state courts, the state pardon board and Governor James P. Goodrich by Judge A. B. Anderson in federal court today. Eight defendants, most of them mere boys, faced the court on charges of stealing automobiles and transporting them from Indiana to other state or vice versa. Following the sentencing of two Indianapolis boys to eighteen months in the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., Judge Anderson broke into a tirade of criticism in which he said:

"You see this thing has been going on for years and years, and the time has come when I have got to tell why. I'll tell you why I have to do these things. It is because the state courts will not do their duty and it is because when they do it and send guilty men to prison the Governor turns them out. It is because when a man is convicted, either the governor or the board of pardons—I don't know who—turns them out."

Budge Levis, twenty-one, and Clifford H. Vanderburg, twenty-two, whose last place of residence, he said, was Muncie, admitted they stole an automobile in Muncie on April 21 and drove it to Dayton where they were arrested.

SAYS PENROSE IS BACK OF CHARGES

Secretary Daniels Connects Pennsylvania Senator With Navy Investigation.

REFERS TO SPEECH IN 1918

Witness Declares Accusation Forms Keystone of Sim's Attack on Department.

By United Press.

Washington, May 18—Senator Penrose is behind the attack which Real Admiral Sims is directing at the conduct of the navy during the war, Secretary of the Navy Daniels intimated today continuing his testimony before the senate naval affairs committee.

In bringing the Pennsylvania Republican chieftain into the controversy, Daniels conveyed the impression that he believed politics responsible for the Sims charges. Daniels noted from a speech Penrose made in the senate August 24, 1918, in which he blamed the secretary of the navy for "procrastination" delaying active naval participation three months at a cost of $15,000,000,000 and many lives—the same accusation which forms the keystone of the Sims attack.

"I have been informed that it was not Admiral Sims who originated this charge, but that it was first made in the senate on August 24, 1918, by Senator Penrose," Daniels said.

"The original charges amplified and repeated by Admiral Sims before this committee are contained in Senator Penrose's speech.

Daniels remarked on the use of similar language by several witnesses testifying in support of Sims.

"They all speak the senator's language, figures, phrases and all," Daniels said.

They are either plagiaristic or received through waves from the Penrose Omaha board, he declared.

It is worthy of note that at the very time Penrose was making Sims was writing to Captain Pratt in the navy department here threatening an investigation of the conduct of the war.

That great minds, even those of politicians and admirals and some who are both, run in the same channels is strikingly exemplified by the similarity of the allegations of Sims and Penrose.

"All these charges are contained in the senator's speech and you might have saved yourselves thousands of reams of paper by investigating his brief accusations, which plagiarized or hypnotized successors have elaborated into many hundred thousands of words."

The "telephic wireless" between Penrose and Sims must have been working clear across the ocean. Daniels continued, "for Sims was telling practically the same things to Americans in Europe."

Sims, he said, expressed practically the same idea in a London speech on Oct. 11, of the same year.

IRISH SITUATION
BECOMES SERIOUS

Indications Are That General MacReady Has Begun Campaign to Restore Order.

MORE TROOPS DISTRIBUTED

Government Ready to Adopt Drastic Measures in Londonderry and Other Sections.

By United Press.

London, May 18—The crisis in the north, west and south of Ireland, apparently was developing rapidly today with all indications that General MacReady had begun his long expected campaign to restore order in the island.

Thousands of fresh troops were being distributed in the west and southwest, dispatches said.

The government was reported ready to adopt drastic measures in Londonderry which newspapers described as "the city and the dreadful night." A large body of troops arrived in Londonderry last night, following three nights of rioting between unionists and Sinn Feiners.

The existence of a "state of war" dispatches said was beginning to be recognized by everybody in Ireland. Arrangements for military control were reported practically completed. Troops had taken over private residences in the disturbed areas.

Colonel Repington, military expert commenting on reports that martial law would be established, said that in such event at least 400,000 troops would be required.

Arrangements for military control were reported practically completed. Troops were taking over private residences in the disturbed areas of the south and west.

Further developments were expected in the house to commons today when the Irish bill again came up for debate.

FINANCIAL PROGRAM.

One of the crying needs of the federal government today is a sound financial program. During the war the government acquired the habit of spending huge sums of the people's money, frequently without regard to value received. During the trying days of the World Conflict the public willingly furnished the necessary money. Liberty bonds were purchased as rapidly as the issues were placed on the market. Taxes of various kinds were provided and were accepted without complaint or comment.

The method of expenditures followed during the war became a habit. It was an easy habit to acquire. But the day of reckoning is at hand. The people are now looking for an administration that will point with pride at its economic program and not boast of how much money it has spent. Thrift must take the place of waste. The country has had its "wild fling" and it must now get back to the solid basis of simple living.

The method of raising funds for public needs is one of the most vital problems to be considered by the next business administration. Luxury taxes, excess taxes and the other similar ways of raising revenue have not accomplished the purpose desired. The consumer ultimately pays all of them. Taxes of any kind become a fixed expense to be considered in determining the selling price. The high cost of commodities cannot be materially reduced until these "incidentals" are eliminated. The government must change its methods if public affairs are to be conducted on less revenue. The simplification of our intricate and complex system of taxation will do much to reduce the cost of living and will require greater efficiency in government departments.

A dispatch from southwestern Indiana says there is an abundance of snakes this spring. But conditions may be improved as the illicit stills and whiskey rings are destroyed.

It appears that the uninstructed delegate will be the popular man at the Republican national convention.

It wouldn't take the householder very long to make a complete and thorough survey of his coal supply.

And still they say transportation is the cheapest commodity we have.

WELCOMES THE OPPORTUNITY TO TELL ALL FACTS

Mrs. Byers, Deeply Grateful for Aid,
Wants Others to Know
Trutona's Merit.

Terre Haute, Ind., May 17—"I am glad to have the opportunity to tell of the wonderful benefits Trutona has given me." Mrs. Rebecca Byers, who lives in Terre Haute, at 857 North Third street, said recently. Mrs. Byers' gladness is explained as follows:

"For the past three years my system has been in a run-down condition. My kidneys had been giving me a lot of trouble and my stomach was in such shape that I had to be careful about my eating. I suffered constantly from pains in my back and I know that my liver wasn't in good condition."

"My appetite had almost failed me completely when I began using Trutona. But thanks to this treatment of the perfect tonic I can eat anything I want to and thoroughly enjoy it. For the first time in three years my back doesn't bother me, and I sleep as sound as any human being can."

"Trutona did all of this for me after other medicines had failed to relieve my troubles, and I'm sure if one bottle will help me so much, a few more will be put me in splendid health. Furthermore, I'm confident that Trutona will do the same for others if they'll take it according to directions."

Trutona's healthful action reaches every portion of the body, and performs its work faithfully and efficiently. Trutona rebuilds diseased nerves and tissues creates a healthful appetite and aids in the assimilation and digestion of the food.

Trutona is now being introduced and explained in Seymour at W. L. Federmann's Drug Store.

CONTESTS TO BE DECIDED STRICTLY UPON MERITS

Republicans Pleased with Stand
Taken Regarding Convention Seats.

By United Press.

Washington, May 18.—The utmost care is to be exercised in the handling of contests over the seating of delegates when the republican national committee meets in Chicago for the purpose of taking up those contests and every controversy will be decided strictly on its merits without regard to anything else than what contestant is entitled to the seat. This is the word that has gone out from National Chairman Hays. Proper, fair and open consideration will be given to the claims of all contestants and judgment will be passed impartially without regard to anything but what is right and just.

Widespread approval is heard among members of congress of this determination to proceed with the contests strictly on their merits.

ELKS OF INDIANA TO AID SALVATION ARMY

Grand Exalted Ruler of Lodge Issues
Letter Urging Co-operation in 1920 Home Service Appeal.

WORK STRONGLY ENDORSED

The entire organization of Elks in Indiana, including every lodge and every member, is being mobilized to support the Salvation Army in the coming appeal for funds for service to humanity, May 10 to 20.

Hearing of the 1920 Home Service appeal for $10,000,000 to be conducted by the Salvation Army, beginning a week from Monday, Frank L. Rain, grand exalted ruler of the Elks' lodge, has issued a letter to each of the 1387 Elks lodges in the country, urging them to merit their title "Big Brother to the Salvation Army."

Mr. Rain's letter to his fellow Elks states in part:

"The story of how our order, throughout the length and breadth of this country, and especially in the larger cities, assisted the Salvation Army in meeting the emergencies of welfare work in the war is well known to most of the members of the order. It is a history of sacrificial services on the part of one great organization, which had confidence in the motives and efficiency of another great organization, and it all constitutes a record of achievement and gallant unselfishness which will forever live in the hearts of those whom it was our privilege to assist."

"The Salvation Army, for certain economic reasons which had to do with saving the time of the relief workers so that they might devote themselves to rescue work, announced a year ago that instead of constantly soliciting alms with which to sustain itself, it would make one appeal each year. The last appeal was made in May, 1919, the next appeal, which will be one for maintenance and natural extensions for one year, and a further effort on the part of the Salvation Army to serve suffering humanity more successfully, will take place between May 10 and May 20, 1920."

"Inasmuch as the cause of the Salvation Army is one that we are particularly interested in as an order, namely, the lending of a helping hand to the weak and needy, and because the work of the Salvation Army is of such a serious character and the budget calls for such a large expenditure of funds this year, I feel constrained to ask you as members of the order and as subordinate lodges thereof, to again assist the Salvation Army in every way possible in its forthcoming appeal for funds."

Action on the part of every lodge is expected to follow immediately upon receipt of the letter—Indiana Elks in the larger cities have already taken up the matter and have voted their unqualified support, according to word received at the office of Major Arthur R. Robinson, state chairman for the Indiana branch of the nationwide appeal.

ELOPERS CAN MARRY IN SAFETY IN AIR

Airplane Pilot Offers Services,
Even to Performing the Ceremony.

Tom Symons, Spokane airplane pilot, offers special inducements to elopers. Sea captains, Tom says, are lords and masters of their craft three miles from shore. They arrest and judge and marry and bury and sell booze. He contends there's a similar perpendicular three-mile limit.

"I'm a captain," says Tom, "and my specialty is elopements. There's no room for a preacher in my air bus, so I'll carry a prayer book myself and perform the ceremonies well out of reach of pursuing, indignant fathers." When the barograph needle tickles the line that says the earth is three miles away—straight down—Tom says he'll hold the controls with his knee and lean back in the cockpit to join loving hands together and say the blessed words.

The only trouble is the dictum of the peace conference air experts that decided air is national—in other words that the United States is the United States clear up to the "ceiling."

"But I'll let them take me to court," declares Tom. "We'll see if they can stop an 'old salt' from earning an honest living tying knots for runaways! We'll see!"

As for the bartender part of it—Tom's puzzled.

"But how to do that? If I take it to the plane I get pinched for unlawful transportation. If I have any left over and bring it down I get pinched, too. I'd have to take my customers with me. No, I guess it wouldn't pay."

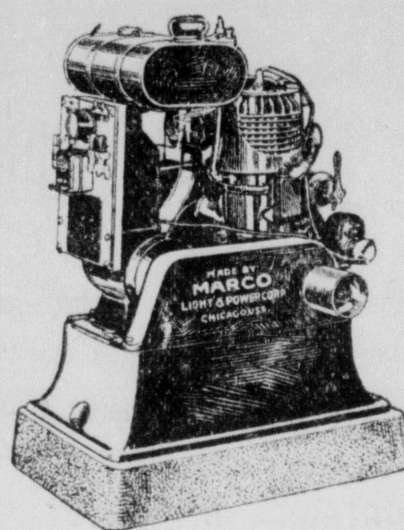

Mrs. Harold Wright and daughters, Mary Louise and Virginia, left Monday afternoon for a visit with Mrs. Wright's sister, Mrs. Fern Grouse, in Cincinnati.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kent and Mr. and Mrs. James Kent of Brownstown, were here Sunday to attend the Lockman-Thornton wedding.—Columbus Republican.

The Army's Electric Plant Won Quick Fame in Farm Use

Bosch Magneto Ignition
Self-Starter; no cranking
Automatic Charging Control—No puzzling devices
1500-Watt Generator—Most efficient made.
Double average capacity
Long Life Storage Battery—Highest grade.
Extra thick plates

This famous light and power plant—built as the Liberty Motor was when the Army demanded a BIG plant superior to anything then known—has won added fame in farm use. The United States Army tests proved its infinite superiority. Now farmers everywhere have proved its remarkable capacity for surplus work—its greater range of use—its greater value—at least two-thirds more than any other farm plant.

Great Advancements

The 1500-watt generator has double average capacity. Engine and generator are on one base. Silent chain drive as in automobiles. No belt. Gear ratio 2 1/2 to 1 gives generator 2,000 revolutions per minute, at slow engine speed 800 revolutions per minute. No overspeeding. Lever slows engine for light work. The engine is the multi-purpose, air-cooled "New-Way," built like a fine automobile engine and with special Marco refinements. Removable from base in five minutes for work on binder or anywhere. Supplies engine or electric power. Charges batteries and runs line shaft at once. Automatic charging control means perfect simplicity. Come see this plant before all are spoken for.

VETERAN TAKES FIRST DAY OFF IN 44 YEARS

After forty-four years of adventure with the life saving service, now the United States coast guard, Capt. Herbert M. Knowles, superintendent of the Third district, is enjoying his first days of freedom from responsibilities since he joined the service in 1876. He is at Wakefield, R. I., retired on a pension, with the record for continuous duty with the coast guard. There have been 1,300 wrecks recorded in the Third district since Captain Knowles entered the service and the comparatively small loss of life is due to his alertness, daring and devotion, reports state. He enlisted as a surfman at the Point Judith, Long Island station, when twenty years old. In 1898 Secretary of the Treasury Gage, recognized his expert knowledge by putting him in command of a picked crew of life saving exhibit at the Trans-Mississippi and International exposition at Omaha. He has long been a member of the board of life saving appliances, which passes on new apparatus and he is largely responsible for the motorizing of the service. On Christmas eve, 1896, in a daring rescue off Point Judith, the storm forced him out to sea 11 miles, but he landed on Block island. When he got back to Wakefield bells were tolling a memorial service for him and his crew.

CHILD BRINGS JOY TO LONELY LIFE; IS REPAID

Summer Boarder Leaves Fortune to Little Girl Who Made Him Playmate.

In the comparative obscurity of a great Chicago wholesale house—moving up and down dusty aisles among bales of merchandise—Francis Paul Galle lived out his life. It was a momentous life.

Once a year, however, in the summer season Galle went away on a vacation. Invariably he went to the same place, Shermerville, a village northwest of Chicago, where he was a "summer boarder" at the home of Gus Fisher.

Now, Fisher has a daughter—a little, laughter loving child who would climb on the knees of the silent man from the city and make him play with her.

Some months ago Galle died—alone, as he had lived. A will was taken to the probate court to be approved. It was learned that Galle had accumulated several thousand dollars, which he left to be used in educating the girl, Grace Fisher, now sixteen years old, the balance to be given her when she is eighteen.

The will was the subject of considerable litigation, but finally was approved, subject to a final hearing later. Attorney Francis H. Hayes appeared for the girl. If no one appears to contest this will then the money will be turned over to Mrs. Rose La Riviere of 4554 South Western avenue as trustee for the girl.

Omaha Grocers War on High Costs.
A war on the high cost of living is to be begun by retail grocers of Omaha, Neb. When customers ask for high priced articles the grocer will advise cheaper articles. Flour will be sold at wholesale prices.

B. F. Gillman spent today in Indianapolis.

Over fifty years ago a young physician practiced widely in a rural district and became famous for his uniform success in the curing of disease. This was Dr. Pierce, who afterwards established himself in Buffalo, N. Y., and placed one of his prescriptions, which he called "Golden Medical Discovery," in the drug stores of the United States so that the public could easily obtain this very remarkable tonic, corrective and blood-maker. Dr. Pierce manufactured this "Discovery" from roots and barks—a corrective remedy, the ingredients of which nature had put in the fields and forests, for keeping us healthy. Few folks or families now living have not at sometime or other used this "Golden Medical Discovery" for the stomach, liver and heart. Over twenty-four million bottles of this tonic and blood remedy have been sold in this country.

OPERATION NOT SUCCESSFUL

"16 years ago I was operated for appendicitis and later operated again for gall stones. Neither did me any good and I suffered all kinds of torture since. Five years ago I took Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and have felt no symptoms or pain since. All stomach sufferers should take it." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. All druggists.

DIDN'T INVENT STEAM ENGINE

Historian Says Not Fulton, But Fitch, Is Entitled to Honor.

No, Robert Fulton didn't invent the steam engine.

Despite the popular impression crediting Fulton with this invention, William C. Mills, curator at the Ohio Archaeological and Historical society's museum on the Ohio State university campus at Columbus, says that the steam engine was invented by John Fitch.

A steam engine made by Fitch was operated successfully in a steamboat 21 years before Fulton's Clermont plied the Hudson river, according to Mills. The original working model of Fitch's boat, invented in 1780, is now in the custody of Curator Mills. Recently it was given to the Ohio Archaeological society by A. N. Whiting of Columbus, great-grandson of Fitch.

The Music of the Entire World Is Yours If You Own The AEOLIAN- VOCALION

THE owner of an Aeolian-Vocalion is not confined to one, or at most two, groups of artists.

Every entertainer, every instrumentalist, every orchestra and band that has made a record, has made it for him to hear and to enjoy.

No matter what the make of the record, no matter by what system it is produced, the Aeolian-Vocalion will play it and play it better than it can be heard on any other phonograph.

From every standpoint this great phonograph offers the utmost in musical value that the expenditure of any sum of money in such an instrument can procure.

PARTY PUBLICITY OBJECT OF BUREAU

Departments Utilized to Extol Virtues of Wilson, Declares Edward N. Dingley.

PEOPLE PAID FOR PRESS "DOPE"

Navy, War and Labor Department Had Reporters to Send Out "Wonderful Yarns."

(By Edward N. Dingley.)
Lewiston, Me., May 18—From the first hour when President Wilson was inaugurated and the Democratic machinery began work, there has been a studied effort on the part of the leaders of that party to utilize the many departments for the dissemination of literature ostensibly to "educate the people," but really to promote Wilson-Democratic theories of government, and to extol the virtues of the Wilson Democracy including "new freedom," "free trade," "internationalism," and "socialism" in many forms.

For seven and a half years, many of the departments have had printed, at public expense, millions of documents telling the people what wonderful things the Democratic administration was doing to promote the "people's interests."

It is difficult to tell just how many of the executive departments have established "publicity bureaus," with paid publicity men and women charged with the duty of preparing "educational matter" to be printed at public expense, nearly all telling of the virtues and efficiency of the Wilson administration.

It is well known that the Creel bureau cost the people many millions. It sent to Europe a large retinue of writers, all at public expense, to tell Europe what a great man President Wilson was, and how he was a modern "Prince of Peace" to deliver the world from its woes.

Europe was told that President Wilson had the support of the American people, and that he endorsed the soviet and socialist programs. It will never be possible to estimate the amount of literature sent out from the Creel bureau before and after it went to Europe, scattering among the people of the United States the European ideas on Socialism, Socialism and Radicalism. It will never be possible to measure the mischief done to American citizenship and American institutions by this sort of government propaganda, prepared, printed and circulated at the expense of the people.

The War Department had its corps of publicity men sending out extravagant stories of the work of preparation, whereas investigation shows that this was done largely to "pull the wool over the eyes of the people."

The Navy Department had its publicity bureau, sending out yarns of the "wonderful victories" on paper. The startling story of a "great naval victory July 4, 1917," which sent the country into a spasm of enthusiasm, was sent out by a government publicity bureau, and proved a fake.

The Labor Department had its bureau of publicity, which scattered broadcast tons of literature to "educate the people." It came from the educational department of the Department of Labor. The bulletins of the Labor Department for six or seven years have been utilized by the Democratic administration to disseminate information concerning the growth of international socialism, sovietism, free speech and free pen.

During the summer and fall of 1919, when the fight in the Senate over the Wilson covenant of a League of Nations was at its height, the bureau of education of the Department of Labor, printed and circulated all over the country, pamphlets giving President Wilson's arguments in favor of the ratification of his covenant just as he had presented it to the Senate. "THE ROSARY" COMING TO PRINCESS THEATRE

Wonderful Production Will be The Feature Attraction Wednesday and Thursday.

How many homes in this city are gradually being wrecked through the husband not appreciating the true, honest and sincere love of a good wife? How many husbands in this city are imbued with the spirit of atheism while their wives, women of serious conviction regarding faith in the things of life unseen, sacrifice the unequalled love of true, honest and sincere creatures? These are two of the questions that are forcibly brought to the attention of all who witness a performance of "The Rosary" which is coming to the Princess Theatre tomorrow and Thursday.

The story treats of a great and powerful subject graphically and in such a way as to grip the attention every minute. "The Rosary" is built upon a thoroughly modern theme showing the influence of thought upon the lives and well being of the men and women of the present day. Theories have sprung from this theme that have engaged the serious attention of the foremost psychologists, but its portrayal upon the stage has been neglected previous to Edward E. Rose's conception of the necessity of such a play for the American public.

The following clippings are taken from "The Franklin" a publication issued weekly by the students of Franklin College. Miss Smith is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay C. Smith, 216 North Walnut street, and Miss Lewis is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lewis, 709 North Pine street:

You can't judge by the simple name Smith.

The kind of a girl it goes with But this one they say

The piano can play Till you think Padewski's a myth.

Since the conclusion has already been reached and the facts already stated, we will now proceed synthetically to take "note" of Edna's life history. She graduated from the Shields high school in 1915 and in fast time came to Franklin. She had a good tempo but the next year "beat" it to Salem College. The next year she "marched" to the Indianapolis Conservatory of Music and the following summer "rested" at the summer School of Music at Lake Forest College. This "retarded" her one year but now she is planning to graduate this spring. She taught English themes with variations in Pulaski high schools the second semester this year. She is one of the staffs of Webster and Iota Psi Nu and sang codas with the Girls' Glee Club. Her home ties hold her at Seymour.

Relative to Miss Lewis the Franklin says:

She's both an assimilator and disseminator of knowledge. After Seymour high school had done its best for her it donated her to Franklin College in the fall of 1914. She then transferred to State Normal and by this time had gained so much information that it took two years of teaching to exhaust her stock. She returned to the initial fount of truth and knowledge this fall and next year she intends to again cast her bread upon the waters. She's done her bit while residing here as she has played basketball, sung with the Glee Club, worked with the House Executive Committee and assisted in English. She is a member of Webster and of Iota Psi Nu. She can retain a sweet disposition while grading Freshman themes and so we feel certain that a mansion above has been prepared for our merry Mary Lewis.

RAILROADS GIVE ATTENTION TO MOVEMENT OF WHEAT

Car Shortage and Strike May Present Serious Problem in Shipment of Grain.

The movement of wheat during the harvest is always a problem for the railroad companies and may become a serious one this year due to the car shortage, strike and general breakdown of the transportation system of the country. Local railroads are already giving attention to the grain movement problem which will be presented in a few weeks.

Hope is expressed by the officials that conditions will be much improved before the harvest season arrives but nevertheless they are arranging to handle grain as quickly as possible. Effort is always concentrated on grain movement during the thrashing season so that the grain may reach the mills as speedily as possible.

HOLDS TRAINMEN'S DEMANDS FOR INCREASES ARE EXCESSIVE

Railroad Managers Association Admits Justice of Boost But Objects to Scale Asked.

By United Press.

Chicago, May 18—Railroad trainmen's demands for an annual wage increase of a quarter of a billion dollars are excessive and unfair, according to railroad managers who protested against the requested increases before the railroad labor board, hearing the managers' side here today. It was admitted the men are entitled to increases, but present demands are too high, they said.

As spokesman of the railroad managers association, E. T. Whittier, chairman of the conference committee, declared railroads were willing to pay trainmen time and a half for overtime but termed as unfair demand of brakemen of $1.62 an hour for Sunday work.

"Railroads are willing to pay overtime for work over eight hours, but it is unfair to pay double time for Sunday," Whittier cited demands of the trainmen and compared them with the previous wages. Baggage men, he said, are asking $219.04 a month. "They formerly received $82.50," he said. "These figures are based on a twenty-six day month. The board will take up tomorrow the demands of the engineers."

NORMAL FREIGHT MOVEMENT CANNOT BE RESTORED SOON

Transportation Situation in United States in Very Critical Condition.

By United Press.

Washington, May 18—Months must pass before normal movement of freight can be restored, members of the interstate commerce commission warned today.

"Halting traffic is not the way to keep it moving," said Commissioner Ashton. The commission may use priority orders to a limited extent to clear congestion of freight cars at important terminals, like New York, Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City.

The interstate commerce commission now is co-operating with the car service commission set up by the railroads in the problems of getting 20,000 empty cars to sections of the southwest for the grain harvest.

BILL REQUIRES DATE ON GOODS PLACED IN STORAGE

Measure Indorsed By Department of Agriculture Does Not Apply To Fruits.

Washington, May 18—The cold storage bill requiring that the date of entry of goods into cold storage be marked on them when they are offered for sale and limiting the period of such storage was passed yesterday by the senate without division and with little debate. It now goes to conference.

This was one of the measures proposed by President Wilson in his message to congress last year making recommendations as to means of reducing living costs. Representatives of the trades affected offered no objection to the measure as it finally was approved in committee.

The senate bill virtually is a substitute for the house measure. It was indorsed by the department of agriculture under which its enforcement is placed, and was said in the report of the committee which framed it to conform more closely than the House bill to the uniform cold storage laws adopted by many states.

House proposals to apply the act to fresh fruits and vegetables were eliminated by the senate on the ground that it was difficult to practice deception in this trade.

The measure limits the total storage period to twelve months. A maximum penalty of $1,000 fine and one year's imprisonment on conviction of violation of the act is provided, and the sum of $200,000 appropriated for its administration.

WIRELESS TELEPHONES USED BY FORESTERS

Preliminary Tests Show Invention Can Be Employed to Advantage.

Preliminary tests of the wireless telephone by officers of the forest service, United States department of agriculture, in the vicinity of Portland, Ore., lead to the belief that this invention can be utilized extensively in the national forests, especially in fire-prevention work. While it is recognized that there are conditions limiting wireless telephone transmission, the results so far are pronounced very satisfactory.

One of the sets used in the tests was installed on Mount Hood, Oregon, where the problem of providing a satisfactory support for the antennae was a difficult one, since a mast was needed which would be strong enough to resist the 70 or 80 mile gales that sweep the mountains. At the same time the mast had to be light enough for the men to be able to raise and lower it before the sheet storms. A 50-foot bamboo pole was finally selected as the support.

In the telephone conversations between the sets, some of which were ten miles apart, the voice carried very clearly and was about as loud as over a wire line. Telegraph signals from many stations scattered over the continent were picked up. On Mount Hood they often were so loud as to be audible in any part of the cabin.

MARINES SHOOT WELL

Make High Record in Range Course Work.

From a shooting standpoint, the year just passed was the most successful in marine corps history, according to advices from marine corps headquarters here. Over 87 per cent of the marines who fired the prescribed range course in 1919 qualified as marksmen or better.

Owing to the many new conditions brought out by the war, a standard course of instruction embodying the most modern methods of small-arms firing is being adopted for future use by the marine corps.

BIRTH RATE OF AMERICAN FAMILIES IS ON DECLINE

Economic Conditions and Marriages Late in Life Are Held Responsible.

The birth rate of families of native American stock is on the decline and in danger of reaching zero within a few generations, if statistics compiled by students of Mount Holyoke can be given credence. Dr. Amy Hewes, professor of economics and sociology at Mount Holyoke, directed the investigation, which was made public by the alumni committee in New York.

The families of the undergraduates at Mount Holyoke were taken as a basis of the study as representative of native American stock. Less than one per cent of the students were foreign-born, while 82 per cent were native-born of native parents.

Data were obtained from 620 families of the students as to the number of children of their own mothers, of their grandmothers and of their great-grandmothers on the maternal side.

The report shows that, while the average number of children in the families of the great-grandmothers was 6.19 and in the grandmothers' families 5.09, the number shrunk to 3.15 in the mother's families.

"The average number of children in the families of the present generation," the report reads, "was found to be slightly in excess of three, which is only a little more than half of the average number of children in the grandmother's generation. If a similar decrease should take place for another two generations, the average number of children would be less than one."

The cause in the decline in birth-rate Professor Hewes attributes to the economic conditions and to marriages late in life. The most general cause she finds to be the emphasis upon a higher standard of living and the conditions which make increased effort necessary to realize that standard.

Professor Hewes offers a radical solution for the problem of the declining birth rate. She suggests that the obstacle of marriage late in life could be removed to a large extent if the wife continued to work after marriage, thus adding to the income of the family.

Mrs. Lawrence Shannon and daughter returned Monday afternoon from a visit with relatives in Azalia.

CHANCE FOR MEN AS SCOUTS.

Frequently some men are heard to say: "I wish there had been boy scouts when I was a boy. I'd like to have had their chance of having a real gang and doing the things they do in the outdoors."

No one is too old to be a scout. There are 14,918 men serving as scoutmasters, and 17,203 hold commissions as assistant scoutmasters. For each of the 16,541 troops organized there is a committee of three men whose duty it is to back up the scoutmaster and assist the troop in every possible manner.

There is a crying need for more leaders, as there are thousands of boys waiting to get into troops. If you wish you had been a scout, you can at least lead the boys now to be scouts. It will do you a lot of good yet, and also do the boys a great amount of good.

There is nothing in life so full of genuine satisfaction as to hold the whole-souled admiration of 32 youngsters.

GLAD HIS BOY IS A SCOUT

At a recent father and son banquet in Chicago the father of a scout made the following speech, according to O. L. Dugan, field executive:

"When my boy came to me several years ago and said he wished to join the boy scouts I said emphatically 'No.' A few days later he asked a second time to be allowed to join a troop that was being formed at the church. I said 'No' again, but immediately began to investigate scouting and found it to be not at all what I had thought, a young army, but that it taught many good and useful things. Still I did not tell him that he might join.

"A few days later he came to me a third time and said: 'Dad, why don't you want me to join the boy scouts?' Then I said to him: 'Son, I didn't want you to join the scouts, but I have made an investigation and if you will promise me that you will live up to the oath and law of that organization I will give you my consent to join.' He was a happy boy and joined the scout troop at the next meeting.

"I cannot tell you how thankful I am that he did join the troop. I cannot think of any other one thing that has done as much for my boy as being a scout. We are pals together. My son tells me everything. He is a good boy and a good scout, and the scout organization and the scoutmaster deserve all the credit for what he is today."

Out on the silent battlefields of France, at Lille, St. Quentin, Soissons, Rheims, Sedan, Vosges and other shell-scarred places where Americans lie buried, little boys, clad in khaki are seen daily exploring the cross-covered graves, placing flowers upon them and carefully taking photographs of the grass-covered mounds where doughboys sleep.

Now and then they may be seen to stop to look at a piece of paper, move off a few feet, pull out a camera, photograph some grave, then, from a basket slung over their shoulders, produce some flowers with which they tenderly deck the "final slumbering places."

They are French boy scouts, who, as National Scout Commissioner Belgobier of Paris writes to Chief Executive James E. West of national headquarters, have chosen this way to pay homage to the Boy Scouts of America or their brothers or other relatives who have died for France.

Families of Boy Scouts in this country are sending the name, rank and regiment to Commissioner Belgobier, together with an idea of where the graves are located.

SCOUTS' STEADYING INFLUENCE.

Maj. Gen. Littleton W. T. Waller of the United States marines has watched the Boy Scouts at work and this is what he has to say of them:

"If a lad lives up to the scout oath he must of necessity become a good citizen, making his mark in his generation.

"The record of the graduates from the scouts to the military service has been excellent, a record to thrill the scouts with pride.

"The Boy Scouts of America have done splendid work in the efforts to keep up men at the front in good shape. In all the drives for Liberty loans their work has been increasingly valuable. The instruction received by the lads spells preparedness for good citizenship and for the living of clean, upright, moral lives.

"I am strongly in favor of the movement, especially at this period of unrest and uncertainty, when vicious propaganda is doing much to undermine the content and happiness of our people. I hope the movement may wax stronger and stronger year by year."

SCOUTS WILL HELP POLICE.

El Paso's 450 boy scouts are to be made adjuncts to the police department.

It will give the boy scouts a training in community protection, increase their interest in the city's welfare, and it will serve, advocates of the move believe, to go far toward preventing the spread of radical doctrines.

Boys put on their honor will make fine guardians of the city. It was stated, and will report any and all violations of the law. In several other cities, notably Kansas City, Mo., boy scouts on special occasions assist the police in handling crowds and in serving as crossing patrolmen.

THE BOY SCOUT'S BUSY LIFE.

Removed dead trees from a churchyard, searched the woods for a missing man, took part in the Victory Loan rally and bought a note is the good turn record of Scout Troop No. 1 of Bushkill, Pa.

Boy Scouts of Salem, Ore., in their drive for the collection of newspapers and magazines gathered in a total of 48,146 pounds of paper, or more than 24 tons. This was sold to a Portland firm for $14 a ton, netting in excess of $336.

SCOUTS INSPECT PLAYGROUNDS.

An interesting phase of city survey study was the inspection of the vacant lots of Perth Amboy, N. J., by the boy scouts to ascertain the sanitary condition of playgrounds where small children were accustomed to gather after school hours. Three troops of boy scouts made a tour of vacant lots in the business and residential districts to find whether children's games were carried on near dangerous places, such as railroad crossings and street car lines.

FIREMEN WILL ADOPT SCOUTS.

Hose Company No. 1 of Wallington, N. J., has decided to take up scouting, and after a thorough discussion on the subject a committee was named to promote the movement. The borough already has a troop of scouts, and the firemen propose to take this troop as the nucleus for forming a big boy scout organization. Drills will be held in the municipal building auditorium under the supervision of the firemen as soon as arrangements can be made.

Want to Feel Just Right?

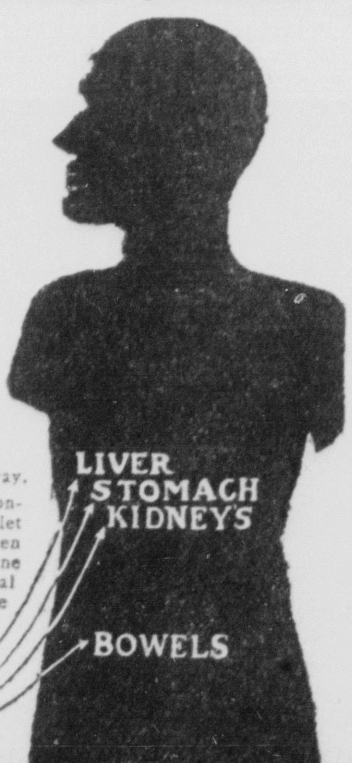

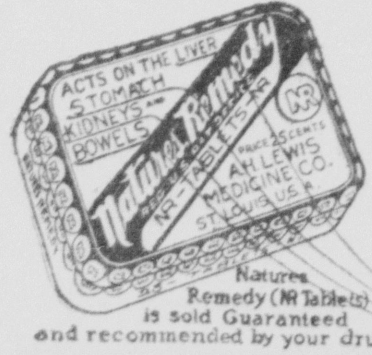

Take an NR Tonight

JUST TRY IT AND SEE how much better you feel in the morning. That "lousy" headache, tired, don't-know-what's-the-matter feeling will be gone—you'll feel fine.

TROUBLE IS, your system is clogged with a lot of impurities that your over-worked digestive and eliminative organs can't get rid of. Pills, oil, salts, calomel and ordinary laxatives, cathartics and purges only force the bowels and prod the liver.

Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) acts on the stomach, liver, bowels and even kidneys, not forcing, but toning and strengthening these organs. The result is prompt relief and real, lasting benefit. Make the test. Nature's Remedy will act promptly, thoroughly, yet so mildly, so gently, that you will think nature herself has come to the rescue and is doing the work.

And oh, what a relief! You'll be surprised to find how much better you feel—brighter, better every way. If habitually or stubbornly constipated, take one NR Tablet each night for a week. Then you'll not have to take medicine every day. Just an occasional NR Tablet after that will be sufficient to keep your system in good condition—keep you feeling your best.

The VALLEY of the GIANTS

Moir seized Shirley's hand and kissed it impulsively. "Very well, then," Shirley continued. "That matter is adjusted, and now we'll all be happy. Cheer up, dear, and remember that some time this afternoon you're going to see Mr. Bryce Cardigan again, and perhaps there won't be so much of a cloud over his smile this time."

When Moira returned to the office of the Cardigan Redwood Lumber company, Shirley rang for her maid. "Bring me my motorcoat and hat, Thelma," she ordered, "and telephone for the limousine." She seated herself before the mirror at her dressing-table and dusted her adorable nose with a powder-puff. "Mr. Smarty Cardigan," she murmured happily, "you walked rough-shod over my pride, didn't you? Placed me under an obligation I could never hope to meet—and then ignored me—didn't you? Very well, old boy. We all have our innings sooner or later, you know, and I'm going to make a substantial payment on that huge obligation as sure as my name is Shirley Summer. Then, some day when the sun is shining for you again, you'll come to me and be very, very humble. You're entirely too independent, Mr. Cardigan, but,

WORKS HARD TO AVERT FLU EPIDEMIC

Government and City Health Officials Warn People to Keep Clean.

Stay Away from People with Coughs and Colds.

"Avoid crowds if you want to avoid influenza," says Association for Improving the Conditions of New York.

Keep your hands clean, drink plenty of fresh water; sleep with windows open; eat three uniform meals a day including a good breakfast.

People who have catarrh or frequent colds invite influenza, declares a prominent Kentucky druggist.

The membrane of the throat and nose is raw, sore and tender, and makes a lovely abiding place for germs to thrive and multiply.

He advises an inexpensive home-made remedy that will bring relief in less than a day and will stop all discharge and soothe and heal the inflamed membrane in a few days.

Thousands are making this beneficial remedy at home and anyone who has catarrh or a cold can do the same.

Pour three-quarters of an ounce of Mentholized Arcine into a pint bottle, then fill the bottle with water that has been boiled.

Gargle the throat as directed and snuff or spray the liquid into the nostrils twice daily. It's a simple way to get rid of cold and catarrh and keeps the nasal passage and throat clean and healthy.

Nearly all druggists dispense Mentholized Arcine in vials containing exactly three-quarters of an ounce, which is all you need to make a pint of this healthful medicine.

oh, my dear, I do hope you will not need so much money. I'll be put to my wife's end to get it to you without letting you know, because if your affairs go to smash, you'll be perfectly intolerable."

She paused suddenly. "No, I'll not do that, either," she soliloquized. "I'll keep it myself—for an investment. I'll show Uncle Seth I'm a business woman, after all. He has had his fair chance at the Valley of the Giants, after waiting years for it, and now he has deliberately sacrificed that chance to be mean and vindictive. I'll buy the valley but keep my identity secret from everybody; then, when Uncle Seth finds a stranger in possession, he'll have a fit, and perhaps, before he recovers, he'll sell me all his Squaw creek timber—only he'll never know I'm the buyer. Shirley, my dear, I'm pleased with you. Really, I never knew until now why men could be so devoted to business. Won't it be jolly to step in between Uncle Seth and Bryce Cardigan, hold up my hand like a policeman, and say: 'Stop it, boys. No fighting, if you please. And if anybody wants to know who's boss around here, start something.'"

When her uncle came home that night, Shirley observed that he was preoccupied and disinclined to conversation.

"I noticed in this evening's paper," she remarked presently, "that Mr. Cardigan has sold his Valley of the Giants. So you bought it, after all?" "No such luck!" he almost barked. "I'm an idiot. I should be placed in charge of a keeper. Now, for heaven's sake, Shirley, don't discuss that timber with me, for if you do, I'll go plain, lunatic crazy."

"Poor Uncle Seth," she purred sweetly. Her apparent sympathy soothed his rasped soul. He continued:

"Oh, I'll get the infernal property, and it will be worth what I have to pay for it, only it certainly does gravel me to realize that I am about to be held up, with no help in sight. I'll see Judge Moore tomorrow and offer him a quick profit for his client. That's the game, you know."

"I do hope the new owner exhibits some common sense, uncle dear," she replied, and turned back to the piano. "But I greatly fear," she added to herself, "that the new owner is going to prove a most obstinate creature and frightfully hard to discover."

True to his promise, the Colonel called on Judge Moore bright and early the following morning. "Act Three of that little business drama entitled 'The Valley of the Giants,' my dear judge," he announced pleasantly. "I play the lead in this act. You remember me, I hope. I played a bit in Act Two."

"In so far as my information goes, sir, you've been cut out of the cast in Act Three. I don't seem to find any lines for you to speak."

"One line, judge; one little line. What profit does your client want on that quarter-section?"

"That quarter-section is not in the market, Colonel. When it is, I'll send for you, since you're the only logical prospect should my client decide to sell. And remembering how you butted in on politics in this county last fall and provided a slush fund to beat me and place a crook on the Superior court bench, in order to give you an edge in the many suits you are always filing or having filed against me, I rise to remark that you have about ten split seconds in which to disappear from my office. If you linger longer, I'll start throwing paper weights." And as if to emphasize his remark, the judge's hand closed over one of the articles in question.

The Colonel withdrew with what dignity he could muster.

Upon his return from the office that night, Bryce Cardigan found his father had left his bed and was seated before the library fire.

"Feeling a whole lot better today, eh, pal?" his son queried.

John Cardigan smiled. "Yes, son," he replied plaintively. "I guess I'll manage to live till next spring."

"Oh, I knew there was nothing wrong with you, John Cardigan, that a healthy check wouldn't cure. Well, we can afford to draw our breath now, and that gives us a fighting chance, partner. And right after dinner you and I will sit down and start brewing a pot of powerful bad medicine for the Colonel."

Accordingly, dinner disposed of, father and son sat down together to prepare the plan of campaign. For the space of several minutes a silence settled between them, the while they puffed meditatively upon their cigars. Then the old man spoke.

"We'll have to fight him in the dark."

"Why?"

"Because if Pennington knows, or even suspects the identity of the man who is going to parallel his logging railroad, he will throw all the weight of his truly capable mind, his wealth and his ruthlessness against you—and you will be smashed. You have one advantage starting out. The Colonel doesn't think you have the courage to parallel his road in the first place; in the second place, he knows you haven't the money; and in the third place he is morally certain you cannot borrow it, because you haven't any collateral to secure your note. So, all things considered the Colonel will be slow to suspect us of having an ace in the hole; but by jinks we have it, and we're going to play it. You must engage some reliable engineer to look over the proposed route of the road and give us an estimate of the cost of construction."

"For the sake of argument we will consider that done, and that the estimate comes within the scope of the sum Gregory is willing to advance us."

"Now, then, you are going to incorporate a company to build a road twelve miles long—and a private road at that. That would be a fatal step. Pennington would know somebody was going to build a logging road, and regardless of who the builders were, he would have to fight them in self-protection. How are you going to cover your trail, my son?"

Bryce pondered. "I will, to begin with, have a dummy board of directors. Also, my road cannot be private, since we must be a common carrier; we might as well carry our deceptive still further and incorporate for the purpose of building a road from Sequoia to Grant's Pass, Ore., there I connect with the Southern Pacific."

John Cardigan smiled. "The old dream revived, eh? Well, the old jokes always bring a hearty laugh. People will laugh at your company because folks up this way realize that the construction cost of such a road is prohibitive."

"Well, since we're not going to build more than twelve miles of our road during the next year, and probably not more than ten miles additional during the present century, we won't worry over it. It doesn't cost a cent more to procure a franchise to build a road from here to the moon. If we fail to build to Grant's Pass, our franchise to build the uncompleted portion of the road merely lapses and we hold only that portion which we have constructed. That's all we want to hold. Moreover, deeds to rights of way can be drawn with a time-limit, after which they revert to the original owners."

"Good strategy, my son! And certainly as a common carrier we will be welcomed by the farmers and cattlemen along our short line."

"Well, that about completes the rough outline of our plan. We have a year in which to build our road; if we do not hurry, the mill will have to shut down for lack of logs, when our contract with Pennington expires."

"You forget the manager for our new corporation—the vice president and general manager. He must be a man of real ability and a person you can trust implicitly."

"I have the very man. His name is Buck Ogilvy and only this very day I received a letter from him begging me for a small loan. I have Buck on ice in a fifth-class San Francisco hotel."

"Tell me about him, Bryce."

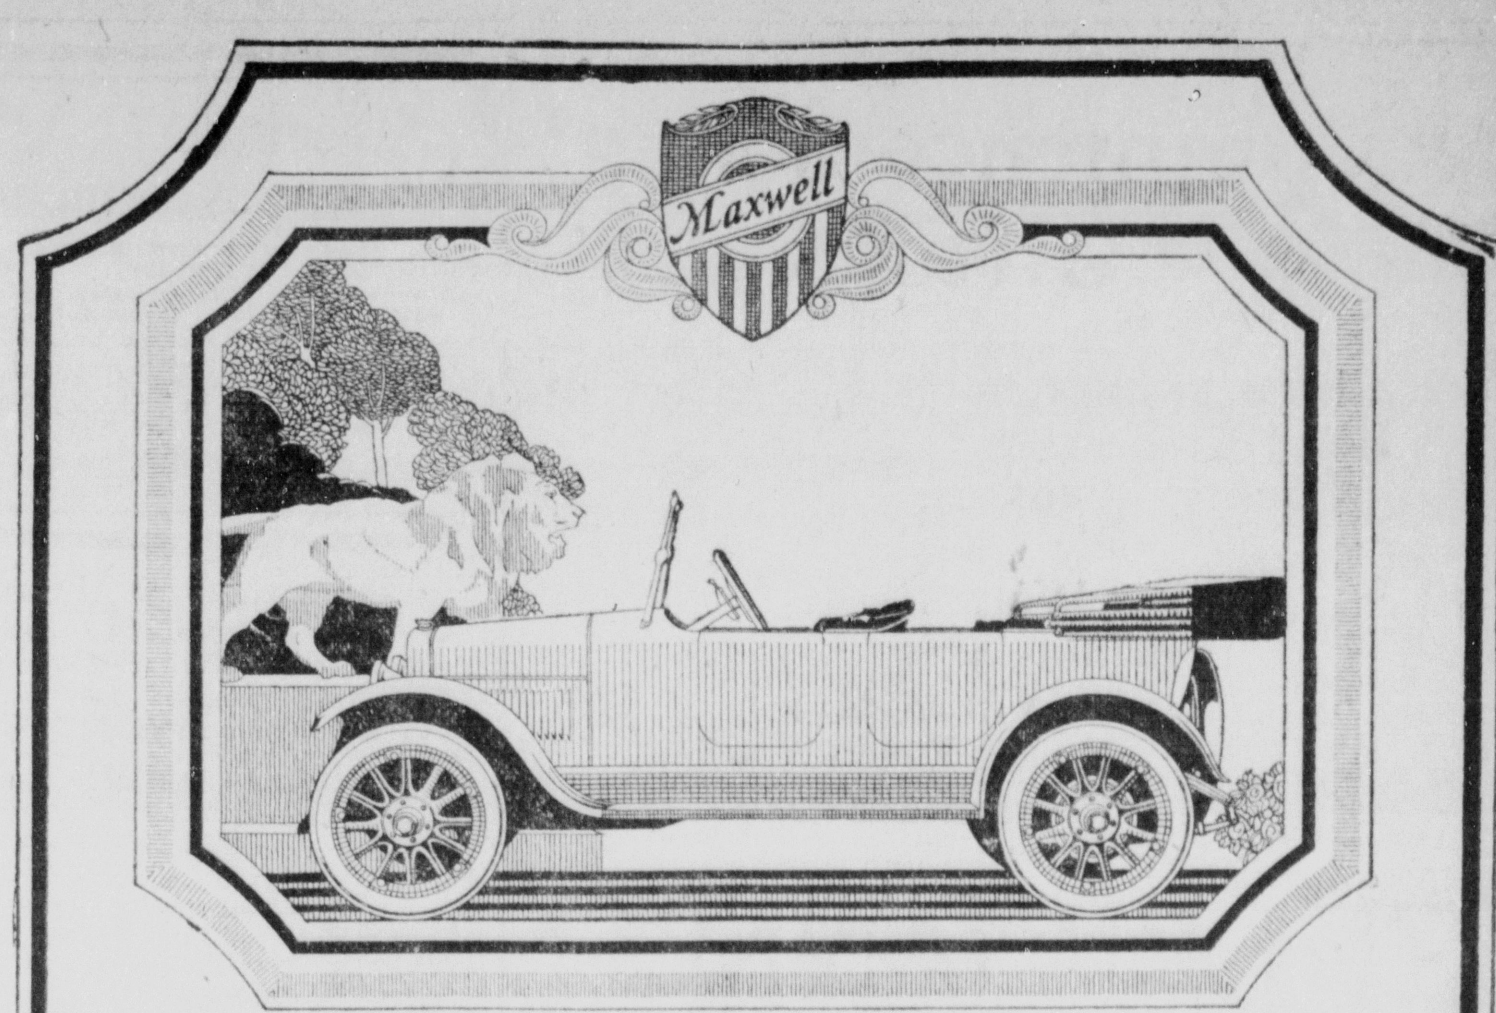

"I'll read you his letter. I claim there is more character in a letter than in a face."

Here Bryce read aloud:

"Golden Gate Hotel—Rooms Fifty Cents—and Up.

"San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 16, 1916.

voice of one crying in the wilderness; then picture to yourself the unlovely spectacle of a strong man crying.

"Let us assume that you have duly considered. Now wind up your wrist and send me a rectangular piece of white, blue, green or pink paper bearing in the lower right-hand corner, in your clear, bold cigraphy, the magic words 'Bryce Cardigan'—with the little up-and-down hook and flourish which identifies your signature given in your serious moods and lends value to otherwise worthless paper."

"When you knew me last, I was a prosperous young contractor. Alas! I put all my eggs in one basket and produced an omelette. Took a contract to build a railroad in Honduras. Honduras got to fighting with Nicaragua; the government I had done business with went out of business; and the Nicaraguan army recruited all my laborers and mounted them on my mules and horses, swiped all my grub, and told me to go home. I went. Why stay? Moreover, I had an incentive consisting of about an inch of bayonet—fortunately not applied in a vital spot—which accelerated rather than retarded my speed."

"Hurry, my dear Cardigan. I finished eating my overcoat the day before yesterday."

"Make it a hundred, and God will bless you. When I get it, I'll come to Sequoia and kiss you. I'll pay you back some time—of course."

"Wistfully thine.
"BUCK OGILVY."

"P. S.—Delays are dangerous, and procrastination is the thief of time." John Cardigan chuckled. "I'd take Buck Ogilvy, Bryce. He'll do. Is he honest?"

"I don't know. He was, the last time I saw him."

"Then wire him a hundred. Don't wait for the mail."

"I have already wired him the hundred. In all probability he is now out whirling like a dervish."

"Good boy! Well, I think we've planned sufficient for the present, Bryce. You'd better leave for San Francisco tomorrow and close your deal with Gregory. Hire a good lawyer to draw up the agreement between you; be sure you're right, and then go ahead—full speed. When you return to Sequoia, I'll have a few more points to give you. I'll mull them over in the meantime."

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

A son was born today to Mr. and Mrs. John H. Buhner.

Omer Shuey has sold his 180-acre farm near North Vernon to Russell B. Rinehart. The deal was made by R. L. Moseley.

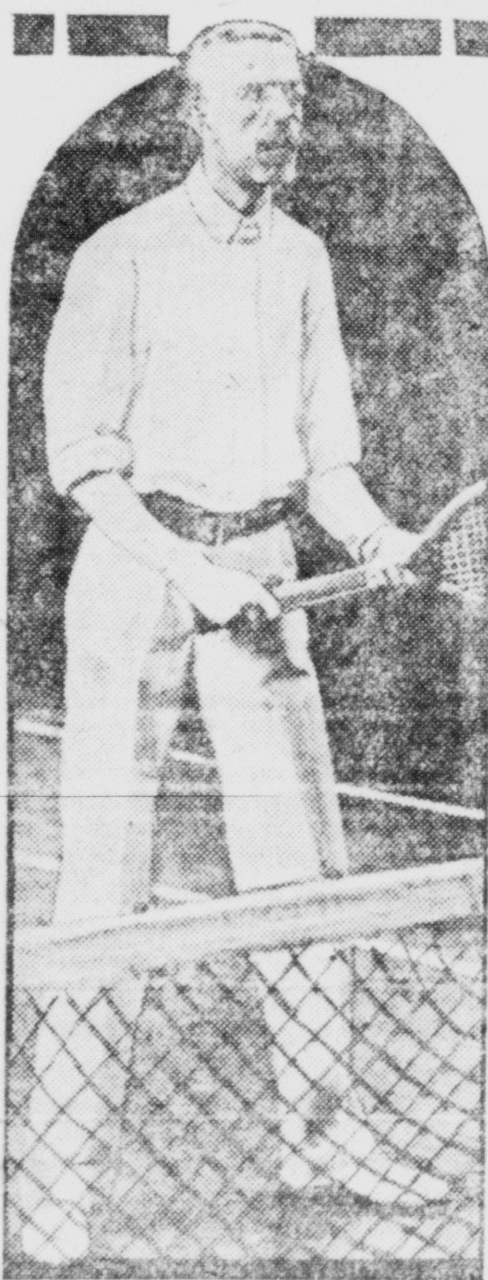

Mrs. J. B. Purkiser went to Louisville this morning to visit her nephew, D. Phillip Hawkins, who recently underwent an operation in the St. Joseph Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Schletter of Brownstown, and Miss Hazel Hamilton, west of the city, were here yesterday afternoon to attend the funeral of Mrs. Mary Hamilton.

Mrs. Frank Voss, Mrs. G. A. Clark and daughter, Harriett, left this morning for Oxford, O., to be the guests of Miss Helen Clark, who is attending Western College. They will also attend the three day exercises which will be held Wednesday in celebration of Arbor Day.

Among those who attended the funeral of Mose Newkirk were Mrs. John Cuddahoe and daughter, Josephine, and Mrs. Mary Luedtke, of Seymour, and Miss Leota Wieneke, of Indianapolis. The funeral was conducted Sunday afternoon from the home in Bedford by Rev. S. S. Lappin, pastor of the Bedford First Christian church.

Too Much Green Tea Dangerous. A correspondent's reference to green tea as a fruitful source of seeing visions reminds one that Sheridan Le Fanu, the author of the well-known study in horrors, "Doctor Silas," wrote three volumes entitled "Green Tea," packed full of thrills and shivers. The victim of green tea drinking was haunted by a monkey, or some beast of the ape tribe, that appeared to him on every possible occasion. Once, when he thought he was quit of it, it materialized, grinning and lupish, on the seat of the mail coach. Sixty years ago green tea was freely recommended to any student who did much night work and wanted to keep awake, with the disastrous result that a sleeplessness was induced which eventually culminated in extreme insomnia in middle life and old age.—London Morning Post.

Voice of Experience. "Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "do you want me to vote?" "I'm not going to tell you." "Why not?" "Because if anything goes wrong with the election you'll say you did exactly as I told you, and it's all my fault."

ADVOCATES TOLL REPEAL

Senator Jones Would Allow Free Passage to Vessels in Coastwise Trade.

A proposition to permit the free passage through the Panama canal of all vessels engaged in the coastwise trade has been made by Senator Jones of Washington.

The existing regulations favor foreign ships is the contention raised. The Jones amendment has no reference to ships engaged in trans-oceanic traffic. This would limit the application to American ships.

A former law exempting American ships from the payment of tolls was repealed when Great Britain raised objections.

NAMED MEMBER OF GOOD AND WELFARE COMMITTEE

Miss Sadie Grace Myers Receives Appointment at Indiana Rebekah Assembly.

Miss Sadie Grace Myers, of this city, will serve as a member of the good and welfare committee of the Indiana Rebekahs during the coming year, the appointment having been made at the annual assembly held in Indianapolis.

A feature of the meeting was the bazaar at which many articles donated by Indiana Rebekahs were sold for the erection of a chapel at the I. O. O. F. home at Greensburg. About $500 was realized by the sale.

Reports of officers of the assembly, given at the afternoon session, showed a very satisfactory increase in membership and in general a very successful year. In the report of the secretary, Emily E. Wedgewood, it was shown that in the 547 lodges now established in Indiana there is a total of 47,145 members, an increase of 3,046 over last year. A balance of $3,833.17 in the treasury was reported.

WORK ON POST LIGHTING SYSTEM DELAYED BY RAIN

Electricians and Workmen Waiting for Favorable Weather to Begin the Contract.

The rain yesterday and today has prevented the electricians and other employees of the W. C. Bevin electric shop, from starting work on the post lighting system to be installed in the city. The workmen were ready to start Monday morning but it is impossible for them to do the preliminary work.

One Dollar Will Start

A Savings Account with the Jackson County Loan and Trust Co.

We welcome small as well as large Savings accounts, because we feel it is our duty as well as our privilege to encourage every person in Seymour to build up a surplus fund of ready cash for use in time of need.

Such a surplus will enable you to make an investment when a good opportunity presents itself, will enable you to purchase a home; will help you to start in business, will make it possible for you to do any one of a score of profitable things when the opportunity presents itself.

Three per cent. interest, compounded semi-annually, is paid on all Savings Accounts.
